Biographical / Historical

---

The Department of Media Relations is part of the Office of Communications. Media Relations ensures that local, regional, national, and international print, broadcast, and electronic media outlets receive all news-worthy information about Brandeis University. The office provides the media with information on events, research, appointments, awards, and honors at the University. Media Relations was formerly called the News Bureau.

---

Scope and Contents

---

Materials include news releases, calendar releases, public service announcements, biographical information, photographs, news clippings, correspondence, memos, and speeches. Some files deal with the administrative matters of the Department of Media Relations, however, most of the collection is comprised of subject files covering trustees, fellows, faculty members, administrative staff, events, projects, and general background information on Brandeis University. The collection also includes news clippings about Brandeis throughout its history. Parts of the collection were created and maintained by Dennis Nealon and Jerry Rosenwaite. The department published The Brandeis Reporter, a faculty-staff newspaper which is now defunct.

Media Relations Administrator's Files

Scope and Contents

Inclusive dates: 1955-1998, n.d. Arrangement: Organized under subseries, then alphabetical. This series contains material about a wide range of events, issues, projects, and individuals at Brandeis, such as commencement, the Dalai Lama's visit to the campus, and South African divestment. These served as subject files for reference use in the Office of Media Relations. In addition, some of the files in this series concern various Development fundraising events, especially industry-specific dinners or dinners honoring individuals. The materials in this series include press clippings, press kits, biographical information, speeches, and notes. Most of general files were maintained by Dennis Nealon, former director of Media Relations, some files were maintained by Jerry Rosenswaite.
