Scope and Contents

One of the most significant components of this collection is the correspondence of Eleanor Roosevelt with Henry S. Hooker, a lifelong friend who was a New York political figure, and couple of close acquaintances, Louise Lazell and Robert S. Benjamin, there is also a small number of letters with other people. These letters might not be of enormous historical importance, but they contribute significantly to the images of Eleanor Roosevelt's personal biography as well as her public life.

Another centerpiece of the collection is correspondence of Franklin Delano Roosevelt with his friend and classmate Sidney Gunn (Harvard University, Class 1904), once Professor at the US Naval Academy, and later at Boston University. These letters cover over twenty years of warm friendship between two people, once fellow students, whose careers went in very different directions.

The rest of the collection consists of various miscellaneous materials about Franklin Delano and Eleanor Roosevelt, collected by the donor, Mr. Benjamin Arac. These materials include some officially published legal acts, assorted periodic publications, news clippings, booklets and pamphlets, as well as FDR memorabilia.

Eleanor Roosevelt Letters, 1929-1966

Creator - cre: Roosevelt, Eleanor, 1884-1962

Creator: Hooker, Henry S. (Henry Stewart) , 1879-1964

Creator: Gunn, Sidney

Date: 1929-1966

Scope and Contents

This series contains letters, arranged chronologically, written by Eleanor Roosevelt to Louise Lazell. These letters cover the period from 1933 to 1941, and reflect the friendly, though not very close, acquaintanceship of the two women. Also, this series includes correspondence between Mrs. Roosevelt and her friend Henry S. Hooker, from 1941 until 1952. Most of these letters are not very long and do not deal with personal issues, however, they provide an insight on the fading of a once close relationship. Correspondence with Robert S. Benjamin reflects the active social life of Eleanor Roosevelt during the last years of her life.
